

When a Sponsored Child Leaves School

Often in Haiti and other 3rd world countries, families are mobile and constantly moving for survival or better opportunities. Usually we only learn that a family has moved when the student is absent from school for some time. In most cases we have no way of knowing where or why the family moved, and little ability in Haiti to maintain contact. We realize that it is disappointing to create a relationship with a young person and then lose contact, but this is unfortunately life in Haiti. The other reason students become ineligible is that they graduate — this is exciting news to be celebrated!

When a student becomes ineligible EWO will select a new child for you to sponsor and let you know of the change via email. If you prefer to select your own child or prefer to discontinue sponsorship at that point, please respond to the email and let us know.
